Dr. J. Lederberg,
Department of Genetics,
University of Wisconsin,
MADISON, Wisconsin.

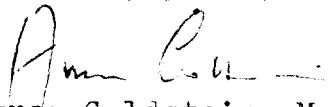

Dear Doctor Lederberg:

We sent off a slant of the Harvard strain a few days ago and also of the nearest stable ancestor.

The strain we have been working with is labelled Harvard. The stable ancestor, which was frozen in broth in June 1950 is labelled MSFB.

We are still playing with the bug and will be interested to hear what of interest you find. I very much enjoyed your talk here, although I confess that the picture of phage particles chewing up the ragged ends of chromosomes is still a little hard to swallow.

Sincerely yours,

Avram Goldstein, M.D.
Assistant Professor of Pharmacology.
